In the morning, I walked to school with a light step. The sky was clear, and I could hear birds singing. It was like they were celebrating the start of the day.

However, this pleasant morning didn't last long. Suddenly, thick clouds covered the sky, and it started to get dark. Soon, heavy rain began to fall.

"Oh no! I didn't bring an umbrella!"

I searched my bag in a panic, but there was no umbrella. Just then, a friend appeared.

"Don't you have an umbrella? Are you okay?"

My friend kindly lent me their umbrella. Thanks to that, I could get to school without getting soaked.

When I arrived at school, other classmates were also struggling with the rain.

On the way home, the sky had cleared completely. There was a beautiful rainbow.

"Thank you so much for today."

"You're welcome. We should help each other when in need."

Even though it was a rainy day, thanks to my friend's kindness, it became a heartwarming day.
