Dan decided to take a day off from work because he had a fever. He called his workplace and said, "Hello, I have a fever and will take a day off." The person at work replied, "Understood. Please make sure to go to the hospital."

After the call, Dan went to the hospital. After being examined, he took the medicine prescribed by the doctor, and his fever went down from 39 degrees to 37 degrees. Dan decided to stay home and rest for the day to recuperate.

For his meal, Dan's mother made him some congee. Eating the warm congee not only warmed his body but also his heart.
